

Understanding how your building works and learning from past experiences

Performance gaps do not just relate to energy efficiency. User satisfaction, comfort, health and wellbeing are also key performance indicators that highlight if a building is working as intended. These metrics are especially important in the health sector and a POE provides the data to help understand how well a building performs in these areas. This information can help save the NHS money through reduced operational cos G[W pTETQD.000008878 Tm0 g0 G[r)-3(ed)3(uce)3(d ope)13(r)-3(ation)